

Operational Services

Axxsys™ Operational Services

Operational Services (OS) is a unique offering from Axxsys. Based on building blocks, rather like the blocks of time you dedicate to a system during its operational life, the OS-model enables you to quickly execute when challenges occur.

There can be numerous scenarios where flexibility and quick response times are key to getting the job done on time and on budget. We offer a solution where our clients can get access to specialist knowledge and a guarantee that we deliver work of the highest quality.

On-Demand Resources – Staff departures, holidays, sick leave - get operational continuity and reduce your key staff dependency.

Flexibility – Only need a consultant one day a week or one month per year? We can tailor any solution.

Unparalleled Expertise – Leverage from Axxsys' extensive industry and product knowledge avoiding costly errors.

Project Support – Get off to a good start or make sure you finish the job. Axxsys provide top resources when you need them the most.

Core Staff Relief – We give you an opportunity not to over stretch your key resources.

Specialist Consultant Pool – Utilise a wide range of expert skill sets depending on your business needs.

Axxsys™ Operational Services

The Operational Services model reduces business risks. Having access to top tier consultants - as and when you need them - significantly reduces overheads and key staff dependencies. In every business, even minor challenges can be crucial to the execution of the daily work flow.

We have the skill sets and the know-how and can therefore provide you with an interim solution when you are faced with staff departures, holiday peak periods, long term sick leave or maternity leave. Running an efficient buy-side firm often translates into minimising expensive operational staff, but on the flip side increasing dependencies on the core team.

Axxsys offers peace of mind at a fraction of the cost of increasing head count.

About Axxsys

Axxsys was established in 2003 as a specialist consultancy firm to the Asset Management industry. The company now operates with more than 20 specialist consultants in a variety of areas on assignments worldwide.

We have comprehensive knowledge of the financial industry from a business perspective as well as the supporting technologies.

Our dedicated consultants work closely with our clients to achieve their targets, and we have a strong track record of delivering tangible added value for the organisations that engage us.

Axxsys help clients realise the full potential of their investment in a platform, based on our experience from more than 30 top Asset Management organisations, combined with our excellent knowledge of the many different applications designed to support your business.
